bacco Exchange: Gentlemen,-Your committee beg leave respectfully to report that in accordance with your instructions we have carefully examined the books of the secretary and treasurer, and find the same not only properly and accurately kept, but correct in every respect; showing a balance on hand and to the credit of the Association on the Sth of October, 1876, the sum of $628.93-a considerable increase upon the balance reported on hand at the same time twelve cent. interest on balances," and insert the months since. We would recommend that the account of the Association shall be kept in bank, in the name of the "Treasurer of the Tobacco Exchange," bearing six per cent. interest on balances. Upon a comparison of the list of membership with the receipts of the treasurer, we regret to report a large number of delinquents (as shown by the treasurer's books) on the part of members who have availed themselves of the privileges of the Exchange, and yet have omitted to pay their dues up to the 1st of July, 1876. We would therefore recommend that the treasurer be instructed to notify such delinquents of the amount due by them, and should they fail to pay the same within thirty days from such notice that he shall furnish a list of said delinquents to the president, crase their names from the roll of membership, furnish the auctioneer with the names of the same, and notify them of their exclusion from the Exchange as bid-

In the consideration of such matters we deem it to be our part simply to call the attention of the members of your Association to such errors as have been observed or brought to our attention by others, and to suggest the means of correcting the same. In regard to your rules and regulations, we can but express the opinion that they are not only well conceived, just, and proper, but quite sufficient for the government of the Association if adhered to; yet we regret to express the opinion that in the leading characters, they were promptthey are "much more honored in the ly recognized and duly appreciated by her breach than in the observance"; and in audiences, who never fail to discern and order to enforce the same, as far as possible, we would recommend that the Executive to the prima donna did they become at Committee shall be annually appointed by the president; and that it shall be the duty

We would also call your attention to an evil much complained of by those who would seek to patronize this as a tobacco market. We allude to the complaint (not, in our opinion, unjust) that the purchaser does not receive in weight (according to the manifest issued by the warehouse) that for which he has paid, and we fail to discover any just reason why tobacco should be "an exception to the rule" governing weights and measures in trade. Another point affecting the interest of the trade is that arising from the unjust tax on account of "extra cooperage." One who has taken the trouble cannot have failed to observe that few (if any) hogsheads or casks the issues of the canvass before the people of Richmond Friday night.

THE OPERA-MARTHA.-A Richmond audience never welcomed more cordially the return of any favorite than it did last night that of Mrs. Caroline Richings Bernard and her new company. Years ago, when Miss Richings first came to Richmond with her splendid company, possessing fine voices, expressive execution, and excellent acting honor true talent and genius. Especially tached. They have always had a respect and a kindness for her akin to affecof such committee not only to take tion, and Caroline Richings, as soon cognizance of all matters relating to as she appeared enscenced herself in the erous opera-goers. While in the respect of her merit she thus hearts of our people by her accomplishments, her great facility in her art, and her force of expression, she stood before them as an artist of a very high order. Now she the feeling entertained towards her is a little less sentimental, it has lost none of its interest in her welfare; if so tenderly was indeed most cordially received, and this visit will doubtless long Jinger in her memsome of its sweetness has passed away with age, she still sings with an accuracy and fervor that reminds one of her palmiest

The opera season opened brilliantly last night, notwithstanding the stormy weather. Nearly every seat was filled in the dresscircle and parquet. The opera presented was Flotow's "Martha," and was received with much enthusiasm and pleasure. The cast was: Lady Harriet Durham, maid of honor to the Queen, Mrs. Bernard; Nancy, Miss Hattie Moore; Lionel, Mr. Harry Gates; Plunket, Mr. John J. Benitz; Lord Tristan, Mr. Frank Howard; High-Sheriff,

Mr. Joseph Dauphin. Mrs. Bernard sang throughout the opera with an evident determination to show her friends before her how fully she appreciated their presence, and how much pleasure it gave her to visit Richmond again. One of her chief attractions, aside from her highlycultivated voice, is her charming, lady-like manner and refinement. In the quartette with Lionel, Nancy, and Plunkett, towards the end of the first act, the quartette in Plunkett's farm-house, and the duo between Lionel and herself, when she sang the "Last ing. The "Last Rose of Summer," one of the most popular pieces of music ever written, fairly brought down the house. Indeed, she was rapturously encored, and sweetly, while rich and fragrant bouquets pletely overcome at this evidence of appreiation

Mr. Gates, the tenor, came in for a share of the favors of the evening. He has a very good woice, and struck B flat with much ease. His remarkably clear and distinct enunciation while singing was particularly noticeable.

Mr. Benitz, who sang the part of Plunkett, is not graceful, and labored under, severe hearseness, which detracted from his singing. Somehow we always associate poor Campbell with Mrs. Richings and her company, and we missed his harmonious, dignified, and well-trained voice. Mr. Benitz has a good voice within its compass, and will doubtless be more at home tonight as Count Arnheim. Miss Hattle Moore is coquettish and tractive, and has a sweet parlor voice. It is not strong enough, however, for some of the difficult music required of Nancy in Martha, yet she pleased everybody last night,

Mr. Howard as Tristan did very well indeed, and sang his part with precision and earnestness. Mr. Dauphin, High-Sheriff, was only tolerable. His voice is not strong enough for the part. We may say of the chorus, although small, at is very well trained, and sang well and with much force and volume; and altoether the opera passed off very nicely We hope Mrs. Bernard will repeat it for the matinee. It will be just the thing. To-night the Bohemian Girl will be pre-

The church has been greatly blessed, and six of the scholars of the school converted during the past week. He made an urgent appeal to all the friends of the cause of Christ to aid in building a Samuel giving the closing scenes in the life of foses. He also read a fine poem on "The Burial of Moses." The readings were very interesting and instructive, and highly appreciated by the audience.
